8:00 AM

As a remote Executive at a quickly growing regional company with 300 employees, Tanya knows it's critical to meet regularly with her staff. To put together an effective company keynote, she relies on Copilot to handle previously manual tasks, such as catching up on emails and monitoring threads for updates relevant to her upcoming company meeting.

Copilot in Outlook

Summarise my emails and chats from the past week that mention the year-end results. Create a to-do list with action items prioritised based on when the message was received.

9:00 AM

Tanya uses Copilot to generate action items for her team to provide feedback on her presentation deck. One of her key points is how the company performed against the revenue targets they set last quarter. She saves time by asking Copilot to cross-reference the data shared on a call to ensure accuracy.

Copilot in Teams

Generate key points and assign action items to everyone on the Executive Sync. Tell me the revenue numbers shared on the call and cross-reference them with the data in the sales database.

2:00 PM

Tanya's team has shared their input for the deck, which she will present at the company keynote. She rests assured knowing that she can use Copilot to quickly address their design feedback and insert their content before the meeting at the end of the day.

Copilot in PowerPoint

Revise the presentation slides, changing out a few images to align with the company motto, "We overcome every obstacle." Add a slide showcasing the revenue numbers from the Executive Sync.

4:00 PM

After a busy morning, Tanya now has 20 minutes to work on her speech for the company address. Copilot helps her edit her speech to be more relatable for her audience.

Copilot in Word

Rewrite my speech to make it resonate more with employees across the company using the content in the presentation. Give me suggestions of humorous ways to begin this speech.
